7 Signs You Lack It” – Spiritual maturity isn’t something you can acquire. It s something you can work on and grow in. It’s like a marathon, not a sprint. It’s a journey that takes time and effort. So where does this journey begin? It begins with a decision to become more spiritual. Spirituality is not just about attending a church service or reading a devotional book. It’s about making a commitment to live a life of faith. Here are 7 signs you lack it:

1. You don’t have a personal relationship with God.
2. You don’t pray regularly.
3. You don’t read the Bible daily.
4. You don’t attend church regularly.
5. You don’t participate in spiritual activities beyond church attendance.
6. You don’t have a spiritual mentor.
7. You don’t prioritize spiritual growth in your life.

It’s important to remember that spiritual maturity is a process, not a destination. It requires effort, dedication, and commitment. So if you’re looking to grow in your faith, here are some tips to help you:

1. Set aside time each day to read the Bible and pray. Make it a priority to read even just a few verses each day.
2. Find a spiritual mentor who can help guide you in your journey.
3. Attend church regularly and get involved in the community.
4. Participate in spiritual activities beyond church attendance, such as attending Bible studies or participating in community service projects.
5. Prioritize spiritual growth in your life. Make it a priority to attend church, read the Bible, pray, and participate in spiritual activities.

Remember, spiritual maturity is a journey, not a destination. It takes time and effort to grow in faith. But with dedication and commitment, you can experience a deeper relationship with God and a more fulfilling life.
