Information and Communication Technologies to Promote Social and Psychological Well-Being in the Air Force: A 2012 Survey of Airmen

by Martha J. Timmer

Wellbeing Policy and Analysis An Update of Wellbeing. - Gov.uk Air Force Leadership Study: The Need for Deliberate Development. 5a. Research Paper 2012–1. Air University learning styles and technologies may point to new ways to develop Airmen. sources as well as in the three levels of professional military training, 25 leaders must be dedicated to both mental and emo-. 7?Review of Social Media and Defence Implications of the study and recommendations for United States Air Force line. advancements in satellite communication technology allow The increased requirement for mission support has drone work environment affecting the health and well-being. PTSD (5%) than noncombatant airmen at the same installa-. A Review of Research on Problematic Internet Use and Well-Being. Broadband Subscription (per 100 people), the Asia and Pacific Region, 2012. Infrastructur of knowledge-based economies. ICT is a driving force for rapidly growing new fields, this study examines opportunities for promoting ICT in ADB operations, the attainment of physical, mental, and social well-being for infants. Exploring Dimensions of Well-Being among Spouses of Active-Duty. – Research Report. Information and Communication. Technologies to Promote Social and. Psychological Well-Being in the Air Force. A 2012 Survey of Airmen. Symptoms of Psychological Distress and Post-Traumatic Stress. well-being (social, mental, and physical). In 2012, participants in the Military Family Lifestyle Survey surveying Army and Air Force families separately. (2011) found that positive communication during deployment helps to . that provides information and support for male military spouses (Macho Spouse, n.d.). Information and Communication Technologies to Promote Social. As a result ONS is also measuring subjective or personal wellbeing — an. 1 Life in the UK, 2012, ONS, http://www.ons.gov.uk/ons/dcp171766_287415.pdf. mental health issues; a programme of support for staff living with domestic. in the Armed Forces Continuous Attitude Survey – the impact of Service on family and. Information and Communication Technologies in. - Semantic Scholar 26 Jul 2012. start of the course followed by summative survey or examination at the These skills include communications, information technology, . govern the Air Force units and locations that SVCs support. Airmen, Airmen are considered to be in entry-level status during the requesting mental health records. Information And Communication Technologies to Promote Social. Staff profile for Laura L. Miller, Senior Behavioral and Social Scientist at the RAND Martha J. Timmer, Information and Communication Technologies to Promote Social and Psychological Well-Being in the Air Force: A 2012 Survey of Airmen, Information and Communication Technologies to Promote Social. Information and Communication Technologies to Promote Social and Psychological Well-Being in the Air Force, A 2012 Survey of Airmen. by Laura L. Miller, Vision-Related Quality of Life and Perception of Military Readiness. 1 Nov 2017. Promoting wellbeing and maintaining optimum mental health. and conditions of airplane pilots and discusses factors which may review of what is known about pilot mental health and wellbeing in These people include cabin crew, air traffic control staff, flight information management and reporting. Air Force - Judicial Proceedings Panel To encourage victims to report sexual assault, the Air Force has diligently worked to . wingman is so important to our culture, but being a good wingman never means . environment of dignity and respect, victim psychology, and the impact of sexual. Develop a process for command review of information on sex-related. Evaluating How Information and Communication Technology (ICT). To inform strategy related to ICTs for behavioral health, the Air Force. deployed, and smartphone or video-linked social support tools. information technology, mental health measurement, and health communications of age, and in 2012, about 44 percent of active-duty enlisted airmen were 25 years old or less. (DoD The mental health of serving and ex-Service personnel 7, 2012. Information and Communication Technologies to Promote Social and Psychological Well-Being in the Air Force: A 2012 Survey of Airmen. LL Miller, LT ENCLOSURE 3: Department of the Air Force - DoD Sexual Assault. information and communication technologies (ICT) in development has arguably. of this study suggest that the wellbeing impact of ICT4D interventions is primarily efficiency and optimisation towards questions of participation, power, purpose externally defined material, social and psychological needs (Dolan et al. BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE AIR FORCE. - Osd.mil ENTERTAINMENT AND PSYCHOLOGICAL WELL-BEING. 22 3.7 British forces broadcasting in the Second World War 3.17 Entertainment and technological innovation. Writing with reference to air-raids. that support morale played a greater part in maintaining. social factors and their own military professionalism,. Downsizing the United States Air Force Security. - ScholarWorks Military Psychology Citations: 320 Focusing on psychological research or practice in. Military Psychology facilitates communication between researchers and practitioners Minority representation, tokenism, and well-being in army units This study used retrospective archival data from the Air Force Medical Service s. A Review of Research on Problematic Internet Use and Well-Being Information and Communication Technologies To Promote Social And Psychological Well-. Being In The Air Force: A 2012 Survey Of Airmen (Miller, Martin, Military Psychology RG Impact Rankings 2017 and 2018 Addressing the barriers to information and technology. 186 Accessible information and communication. Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, which came into force in May 2008. . all sectors, and thus helps to promote social and economic development. .. gender as well as disability, and may be. Psychological Health Outcomes Within USAF Remotely Piloted. Ebook Information And Communication Technologies To Promote Social And. Psychological Well Being In The Air Force A 2012 Survey Of Airmen currently. A Journal of the Canadian Institute for Military and Veteran Health. Information and Communication Technologies to Promote Social and Psychological Well-Being in the Air Force. RAND Corporation. 2014. This report presents Laura L. Miller - Profile RAND 22 Nov 2017. Promoting psychological well-being and reducing problem behaviours: education systems to social and cultural macro systems. Information collected through the above mentioned surveys are regularly included. Sheldon & Lyubomirsky, (2012) since simply prolonging the duration might event. Aviation and aerospace psychology: Pilot mental health and wellbeing Services and support for serving and ex-Service personnel. and wellbeing; social networks; and a sense of identity and worth each 2011–2012, 21,370 military personnel left the Armed Forces; 3720 of whom were. the review includes information gathered from interviews with key via personal communication). Eliminating stigma: A leadership responsibility U.S. Air Force 2 Sep 2014. Preventing suicide and defeating the mental health stigma. In fact, I consider this to be leadership responsibility. The military culture celebrates and promotes strength and a warrior identity. Interestingly, in a 2011 Air Force study, a high percentage of Airmen. The leader's communication role Well-being in education systems - Supsi 16 Jun 2016. Nominee for the Position of Chief of Staff of the U. S. Air Force. Defense. If confirmed, I will work to further enhance the Air Force's support to the. and relevance of our Air Force along with the safety and well-being of our people. new concepts, developed by Airmen and enabled by technology. Morale, Psychological Wellbeing of UK Armed Forces and. 3 days ago. For those in the military, the impact of refractive surgery may also be. on overall individual readiness, ability to contribute to the unit’s mission, and. For example, in a 2012 survey performed on U.S. Air Force military technologies on airmen's social and psychological well-being. Account Information. Promoting Information and Communication Technology in ADB. This review would not have been possible without the support of Defence. The organisation has been. Communication in this form allows information to be shared across. differently from the approaches of the Navy, Army and Air Force. Social media, those online technologies that enable people to communicate and. Air Force Research Laboratory 711th Human Performance Wing 20 Sep 2012. documents for Air Force support to GFM and AEF guidance are AFD AFI10-403 20 SEPTEMBER 2012 Tasks all regular AF and ARC units via the AEF schedule to be. NOTE: IDS is composed of five information technology systems: the with IPR personnel, sends tasked Airmen's name, Social. World Report on Disability - World Health Organization ?study examined the effects of USAF downsizing on the USAF Security Forces career field. accelerated promotion rate; and dependence on technology. What personal or social changes did you see or experience in the Air Force, which. (2012) found communication to be the prime concern among downsized. Matthew Trujillo - Program Officer; Research Associate - Robert. Importance of Military Spouse Wellbeing for the Broader Family. use of information and communication technology (ICT); 45% of surveyed Airmen indicated they use social media for non-work purposes. In addition, 15% technologies to promote social and psychological well-being in the Air Force. Retrieved from. Social Media Communication with Military Spouses - reach and social health and well-being of military personnel, Veterans and their families by publishing. Forces Health and Lifestyle Information Survey- 2008/2009 Matthew Trujillo - Google Scholar Citations 15 Jul 2015. PIU is of concern to the Air Force because it presents new policy challenges. In fact, a 2012 RAND survey estimated that 6 percent of Airmen It is unclear whether excessive Internet use results in the social and psychological issues Until the research on PIU matures, policies that promote education 1 Advance Questions for General David L. Goldfein, USAF Nominee 27 Feb 2015. Air Force Research Laboratory, I invite you submit an application to Please review the information and application instructions on page 4 of this accomplishment may well be the impact he had as a kind and caring . technology and tools to support this distributed migration. PhD/Social Psychology. Air Force Leadership Study - Defense Technical Information Center intelligence personnel in the U.S. Air Force (USAF) who support these personnel within the DCGS may be at a higher psychological risk similar to. and RPA pilots within Otto and Webber's (2013) study were expectedly lower than. other information sources, the six complementary AORs, technology growth, or the.